Ambassadorships

Thank you for your interest in Village Yoga's ambassadorship program. Ambassadorships are similar to a work-trade position. Each training will have up to 3 ambassadors, each assigned a different department to support within the training. Some ambassadors may assist with facilities management, or operations, or even in the kitchen during immersion trainings. Ambassadors are almost always required to arrive early and stay later after each training session, and in return they receive a substantial discount on the training program. This application contains information for you to understand how our ambassadorship process works along with application deadlines. The intention of the ambassadorship program is to make Kunga Yoga Programs available to individuals seeking to enhance their practice on & off their mat, regardless of their financial situation, and in return create support for the training group and leaders.

*Ambassadors receive a larger amount of financial aid, but in exchange offer their time to support the training.
